

Llangollen Railway added 2 new photos.

Like Page

5 May · 🌐

On Saturday 2nd May, members of the Liverpool University Public Transport Society, on their annual day out, called in at Llangollen and rode the first train of the day to Corwen East on the Wickham Railcar.

Despite the damp weather they had a good view of the line, including the extension, before rejoining the Bristol Royal Blue coach for an onward journey to Talylyn and Corris.

Pics show the class 109 with the LUPTS head board at Llangollen Station and their Royal Blue coach departing Corwen.

The organiser said their previous visit was nearly 25 years ago when trains terminated at Deeside Halt.

Let's hope they come back sooner next time.

Unlike · Comment · Share

You, Andy Rigby and 70 others like this.

Top Comments ▾

Write a comment...

Ann Stokes How can those people live so close and not visit for 25 years. They don't know what they've missed.

Like · Reply · 5 May at 20:10

Charles Roberts In our defence, we officially disbanded 24 years ago, this is now an annual reunion event and people now live all over the country. All of us have been back to the railway many times under our own steam (or diesel)! Website here: www.lupts.org.uk

LUPTS in exile (formerly Liverpool University Public Transport Society)

The Liverpool University Public Transport...

LUPTS.ORG.UK

Like · Remove Preview · 6 May at 09:00

Llangollen Railway The members of LUPTS don't necessarily live locally, ie Merseyside, but they come together for a reunion once a year.

As their title suggests, their interests are diverse in terms of transport topics and annual visits have offered a wide variety of themes and travel opportunities.

A Welsh travel option this year found favour on a day away from gathering in Liverpool.

Like · 6 May at 09:05

Ann Stokes Thank you. Explanations fully understood!

Unlike · 2 · 6 May at 11:40

Keith Nason Ann, just to add to the comments I was on the tour and live in Harrow Weald, North West London.

Like · 6 May at 13:30

Keith Nason Ann, just to add to the comments I was on the tour and live in Harrow Weald, North West London.

Like · 6 May at 13:43

Write a reply...

Roger Bennett I remember them well.

Like · Reply · 5 May at 20:09